Acquisition of Novus Med

Asker Healthcare Group has acquired 100 per cent of the shares in Novus Med Holdings Limited ("Novus Med"), a leading niche distributor of solutions within endoscopic surgery technologies and patient positioning systems within the UK.

"Novus Med is an excellent complement to HSL Group's existing presence and customer offering within both the surgical field and out-patient departments in the UK. With this acquisition, we are adding new and innovative technologies in minimally invasive surgery and becoming a more comprehensive partner to the hospitals in the country. We are pleased to welcome the professional team from Novus Med, who, with their commitment to excellence and improving patient outcomes will fit very well with HSL Group and the rest of the Asker family", says Johan Falk, CEO Asker Healthcare Group.

Novus Med is based in the UK, has 12 employees, and generated revenue of approximately SEK 80m in the past financial year ending in June 2025.

The acquisition is a bolt-on to HSL Group and is expected to contribute positively to the group's EBITA margin.
