

Press release 3 November 2025

Acquisition of InnoMedicus

Asker Healthcare Group has acquired 100 per cent of the shares in InnoMedicus AG, a niche distributor specialising in devices and solutions for precise diagnostics and minimally invasive therapies within urology, based in Switzerland.

“We are delighted to welcome InnoMedicus and their talented team to the Asker family. Their extensive expertise and high-quality products and services have earned the trust of leading surgeons and urologists across Europe. By joining forces, we will further strengthen our ability to deliver value to healthcare providers and patients throughout Europe. We are honoured that InnoMedicus has chosen Asker as their partner for the next phase of their growth journey”, says Johan Falk, CEO of Asker Healthcare Group.

InnoMedicus specialises in providing medical devices and supplies, as well as software solutions and training to hospitals and urology centres across Europe, with a strong focus and expertise in innovative technologies and services for therapies in prostate cancer. The company has 10 employees and generated revenue of approximately SEK 50m in 2024 and is expected to contribute positively to the group’s EBITA margin.
